SCHOOL REPORT.

CITIZENS OF NEW LONDON: The past school year has been one of quiet yet steady and progressive work in the schools of the town. Little has occurred to excite public comment and criticism. The twenty-six weeks, comprising the school year, have been a growing time, and we trust the development is permanent and of that nature which shall bring our schools to a still higher standard. No one recognizes more fully than your committee, how wide the field for improvement is. Everywhere, in our larger towns and cities, a new life has taken hold of the whole question of education; our small towns are the last to feel the force of this, but we must do still better work in our schools, or our pupils are to suffer from our neglect.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

The school-house in the West Division has been thoroughly repaired, and is now one of the best rooms we have. New desks, both here and at Burpee Hill, complete this work in the rooms now in use. It should be a matter of satisfaction to every citizen that we no longer have a school-room patterned after those constructed half a century ago. Several of the school buildings need painting.

FREE TEXT-BOOKS.

The legislature at its last session, passed the following act relative to text-books and school supplies:

“Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened:

SECTION 1. The school committee of every city and town shall purchase at the expense of such city or town, text-books and other supplies used in the public schools; and said text-books and supplies shall be loaned to the pupils of said public schools free of charge, subject to such rules and regulations as to care and custody, as the school committee may prescribe; provided, that in purchasing the first supply of text-books under this act, the school committee may effect a change in the text-books previously and then in use upon any subject.

SECTION 2. Pupils supplied with text-books at the time of the passage of this act, shall not be supplied with similar books by the committee, until needed.

SECTION 3. This act shall take effect upon the first day of January, eighteen hundred and ninety.”

By this law it will be seen that hereafter text-books and school supplies are to be furnished to the public schools of all grades, at the expense of the towns. Such books and supplies will be the property of the town, and are to be loaned to the pupils, who are to be held responsible for their careful use and return to the board at the end of the term or year. This will necessarily entail much additional work on your committee and teachers. Parents will notice that Sec. 2 provides that pupils having text-books shall not be supplied with similar books at the town's expense. The schools of the state are now for the first time, absolutely free, and there is no longer any obstacle of pride or necessity to stand in the way of the attendance of the poorest child, because of the need of books. With free text-books, the school work should begin on the first day of the term, without the old-time delay, and the work of classification will be greatly aided.

The greater economy of this method of furnishing books, compared with what it has cost parents in years past, is evident. There is considerable expense at the introduction of the system, but by a comparison of figures of cities and towns that have furnished supplies for five and ten years, it is found that the average expense per pupil varies from sixty-four cents to one dollar annually. The number of children of school age reported by the selectmen last year, was one hundred and seventeen.

SCHOOLS.

With one or two exceptions, the appointment of teachers has been fortunate, and much good work has been done. Where a teacher is adapted to the school, there is great advantage in retaining the same teacher through the year. This has been done in several cases and the results are gratifying.

That principle is wrong that places a true teacher on probation every term of eight weeks, where her success is to be measured solely by the standard of popularity with her pupils; that encourages scholars to believe if they clamor for a change a change will come; that degrades the noble work of the instruction of the young to a thankless, itinerant occupation. The standard of qualification and work should be pushed higher, and with it should come the dignity of a calling that has some elements of permanence in it.

So long as better positions with larger wages await the well equipped teacher, so long there must be occasional changes. Several perplexing cases have occurred in the last two years where an experienced teacher has been engaged for another term, or a new appointment made and accepted. Shortly before the term opened a loud call from some other place snatched them from us, leaving your committee to provide for the school as they could.

Occasional teachers' meetings have been held during the year, while our teachers have gained fresh inspiration for their duties by comparing each other's work in the school-room.

In some schools, a willingness on the part of the pupils to apply themselves has been apparent all through the year, while in others there has been an easy going indifference that our best teachers have not been able to overcome.

Absence from school, occasional half days, and the constant practice of being excused, joined to the careless tardy mark, have cramped the efforts and discouraged the hearts of some of our best workers.

The schools, during the winter term, have been considerably broken on account of sickness, and it was thought best to close some of them before the eight weeks were completed. The teachers know better than the public or any school officer, the hindrances and discouragements they have met and overcome, and the amount of hard work they have put into their schools. Your committee desire to express their thanks to them for their cooperation and faithfulness in carrying on the public schools of New London for the past year.

ROLL OF HONOR.

Every scholar here has been in school one term without being absent or tardy, those marked thus (*) two terms, and those marked thus (‡) three terms.
